

Numbers 17:4

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And thou shalt lay them up in the tabernacle of the congregation before the testimony, where I will meet with you.

Analysis

God declared, 'the man's rod, whom I shall choose, shall blossom'—life from dead wood would mark divine election. This test measured not human qualifications but God's sovereign choice. The budding rod would demonstrate that fruitfulness in God's service comes not from natural ability but from His life-giving power working through His chosen vessels.

Historical Context

A dead piece of wood blossoming contradicts nature, requiring supernatural intervention. This paralleled other biblical signs of God's choice: Gideon's fleece (Judges 6:36-40), Moses' rod turning to serpent (Exodus 4:2-5). God authenticates His appointments through unmistakable miracles that silence human argument.
