

Numbers 18:21

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And, behold, I have given the children of Levi all the tenth in Israel for an inheritance, for their service which they serve, even the service of the tabernacle of the congregation.

Analysis

I have given the children of Levi all the tenth in Israel for an inheritance (נָתַתִּי natatti, I have given)—The Levitical tithe (מַעֲשֵׂר ma'aser, tenth) was not charity but covenant compensation. Since Levi received no territorial nachalah (inheritance) in the land distribution, God Himself became their portion (18:20), sustained through Israel's tithes.

For their service which they serve, even the service of the tabernacle (עֲבֹדָה avodah, service/worship)—This word encompasses both labor and liturgy. The Levites' full-time devotion to sacred duties freed the other tribes for agriculture and warfare, making the tithe a practical necessity for theocratic function. Paul applies this principle to gospel ministers: "Those who proclaim the gospel should get their living by the gospel" (1 Corinthians 9:14).

Historical Context

Written during Israel's wilderness period (1445-1405 BC), this establishes the economic framework for the Levitical priesthood that would function for 1,500 years until the temple's destruction in AD 70. The tithe system ensured the priests could focus entirely on maintaining Israel's worship and teaching God's law without concern for subsistence farming.

Study Questions

1. How does God's provision for Levites through tithes challenge modern assumptions about "voluntary" giving versus covenantal obligation?
2. In what ways does "the LORD is my inheritance" (18:20) offer greater security than land ownership?
3. How should the principle of supporting full-time ministry workers inform church budget priorities today?
