

Numbers 20:2

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And there was no water for the congregation: and they gathered themselves together against Moses and against Aaron.

Analysis

Israel again faced water shortage at Kadesh, prompting gathering 'against Moses and against Aaron.' This rebellion occurred near the wilderness journey's end (40th year, v.1), showing that prolonged divine provision doesn't necessarily produce grateful hearts. The phrase 'gathered themselves together against' indicates organized opposition, not mere complaint. Unbelief persists across generations.

Historical Context

This Kadesh incident occurred approximately 38 years after the similar rebellion at Rephidim (Exodus 17:1-7). A new generation repeated the old generation's faithless pattern, demonstrating how unbelief transmits culturally without intentional discipleship.
