

Numbers 21:16

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And from thence they went to Beer: that is the well whereof the LORD spake unto Moses, Gather the people together, and I will give them water.

Analysis

From thence they went to Beer: that is the well (ברֵא, be'er, meaning "well")—After recounting military boundaries, the narrative shifts to water provision. Gather the people together, and I will give them water echoes earlier water miracles (Exodus 17, Numbers 20) but without Moses' intercession or rock-striking. This generation receives water through direct promise, not mediated crisis.

God's provision shifts from dramatic signs to quiet faithfulness. The wilderness journey matured Israel from requiring constant spectacle to trusting simple promise. Beer becomes a symbol of covenant reliability—God still provides, even when the manner is ordinary rather than extraordinary.

Historical Context

Beer ("well") may be Beer-elim (Isaiah 15:8). Wells in the Transjordan wilderness were crucial for survival. Unlike Sinai's rock-water miracles, this provision appears natural—God working through ordinary means rather than supernatural intervention, though His promise makes it covenantal.
