

Numbers 22:9

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And God came unto Balaam, and said, What men are these with thee?

Analysis

---

God coming to Balaam and asking 'What men are these with thee?' demonstrates divine omniscience interrogating not for information but for revelation. God knew the messengers' identity and purpose; the question forced Balaam to articulate the situation, revealing his own heart. This mirrors God's question to Adam 'Where art thou?' (Genesis 3:9) and to Cain 'Where is Abel thy brother?' (Genesis 4:9). God's questions are pedagogical and judicial, not informational. They expose human hearts before rendering judgment or instruction.

Historical Context

---

God's appearance to Balaam in the night (verse 20) parallels His nighttime revelations to other non-Israelites like Abimelech (Genesis 20:3) and Nebuchadnezzar (Daniel 2:19). These nocturnal revelations often came as dreams or visions, the primary modes of prophetic experience. That God would speak to a pagan diviner shows His sovereignty over all revelation and His determination to protect Israel from cursing.

Related Passages

---

Ephesians 2:8 — Salvation by grace through faith

John 3:16 — God's love and salvation

Study Questions

---

1. How do God's questions to us function to reveal our hearts rather than inform Him?
2. What does God speaking to pagans teach about His universal sovereignty?
3. How should we respond when God asks questions we know He already knows the answer to?

Interlinear Text

---

בָּא לְהָ קָאָנֵשׁ יִם מִי יְיָ אָמַר בְּלֹעַ מִן יְיָ אָמַר
came And God H413 unto Balaam and said H4310 What men H428
H935 H430 H1109 H559 H582

עִמָּךְ:

H5973

Additional Cross-References

---

Genesis 20:3 (References God): But God came to Abimelech in a dream by night, and said to him, Behold, thou art but a dead man, for the woman which thou hast taken; for she is a man's wife.

Numbers 22:20 (References God): And God came unto Balaam at night, and said unto him, If the men come to call thee, rise up, and go with them; but yet the word which I shall say unto thee, that shalt thou do.