Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And Moses and Eleazar the priest spake with them in the plains of Moab by Jordan near Jericho, saying,

Analysis

---

Moses and Eleazar the priest spake with them in the plains of Moab (עֲקֹבֶת מִיָּזְבֵּךְ)—this second census occurs at the end of Israel's wilderness journey, nearly 40 years after the first census at Sinai (Numbers 1). The location by Jordan near Jericho places Israel on the threshold of conquest, poised to enter Canaan.

The census leadership transitions from Moses and Aaron (first census) to Moses and Eleazar—Aaron's son now serves as high priest after Aaron's death (Numbers 20:28). This generational shift mirrors the broader theme: the census counts a new generation born in the wilderness, for the original generation died under judgment (Numbers 14:29-35). The census prepares this new generation for conquest and land distribution.

Historical Context

The plains of Moab (east of the Jordan River, opposite Jericho) served as Israel's staging ground for the conquest of Canaan. Moses conducted the second census here in approximately 1406 BC, 38 years after the first census and just before his death. Eleazar had succeeded Aaron as high priest earlier that same year.
