

Numbers 26:55

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Notwithstanding the land shall be divided by lot: according to the names of the tribes of their fathers they shall inherit.

Analysis

The command that 'the land shall be divided by lot' establishes divine determination as primary in inheritance. Human wisdom, tribal power, and personal preference were subordinated to God's sovereign allocation. The lot ensured that each tribe received what God intended, not what they could negotiate or seize. This reflects the Reformed doctrine of election—God chooses whom He will bless, not based on human merit or effort but according to His sovereign purpose. Our inheritance is by divine decision, not human achievement.

Historical Context

Lot casting was a sacred act, not gambling. It was understood as seeking God's will through divinely appointed means. Joshua would later cast lots 'before the LORD' at Shiloh, making the sacred nature of the process explicit. The lot removed human bias and made each tribe dependent on God's provision.
