

Numbers 26:57

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And these are they that were numbered of the Levites after their families: of Gershon, the family of the Gershonites: of Kohath, the family of the Kohathites: of Merari, the family of the Merarites.

Analysis

These are they that were numbered of the Levites after their families—the Levites (לְוִיִּם) receive separate census treatment. While other tribes numbered fighting men 20+, Levites counted all males from one month old (v. 62). Gershon (גֶּשׁוֹן, "exile/stranger"), Kohath (קֹהֶת, "assembly"), and Merari (מֵרָרִי, "bitter")—the three divisions—organized tabernacle service.

The names carry meaning: exiles who assemble in bitterness? Or strangers who gather despite bitterness? Levites owned no land ("exile"), gathered for worship ("assembly"), and tasted life's bitterness serving a stiff-necked people. Yet they were God's treasured possession, His inheritance. Landlessness became their greatest wealth: "The LORD is their inheritance" (Deuteronomy 10:9).

Historical Context

This second Levitical census (the first was Numbers 3:14-39) confirmed the tribe chosen to replace Israel's firstborn sons after the golden calf incident (Exodus 32:26-29). Levites demonstrated loyalty when others apostatized, earning perpetual priestly service. This census counted the new generation of that faithful tribe.

Study Questions

1. How do the meanings of the Levitical divisions (stranger, assembly, bitterness) describe Christian ministry's costs and purposes?
2. What does the Levites' landlessness but divine inheritance teach about possessing God Himself rather than earthly possessions?
3. How did the Levites' choice to stand with God during the golden calf rebellion earn their descendants a perpetual inheritance?
