

Numbers 31:2

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Avenge the children of Israel of the Midianites: afterward shalt thou be gathered unto thy people.

Analysis

God commands Moses to 'avenge the children of Israel of the Midianites' for their role in the Baal-Peor incident (Num 25). This divine judgment demonstrates God's holy hatred of sin and protection of His covenant people. The Hebrew 'naqam' (avenge) indicates righteous retribution, not personal revenge. Significantly, this is Moses' final military act before death - the leader who interceded for Israel numerous times must execute judgment on those who led Israel into idolatry and immorality. This foreshadows Christ who combines perfect mercy with perfect justice, saving His people while judging impenitent rebels (2 Thess 1:7-9).

Historical Context

The Midianites, related to Israel through Abraham and Keturah (Gen 25:1-2), should have been allies. However, Balaam advised them to seduce Israel into Baal worship through intermarriage and immorality (Num 31:16, Rev 2:14). This resulted in a plague killing 24,000 Israelites. The judgment came 38 years into wilderness wanderings, as Israel prepared to enter Canaan. Moses' involvement ensured continuity - the same leader who saw God's judgment on Egypt now executed it on Israel's seducers.
