

Numbers 31:8

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And they slew the kings of Midian, beside the rest of them that were slain; namely, Evi, and Rekem, and Zur, and Hur, and Reba, five kings of Midian: Balaam also the son of Beor they slew with the sword.

Analysis

Balaam's death among Midian's kings is tragically ironic - the prophet who couldn't curse Israel for money (Num 22-24) died with those he helped corrupt Israel through immoral counsel. Though God prevented his direct cursing, Balaam found indirect means to harm Israel by advising Midianite women to seduce Israelite men (Num 31:16, Rev 2:14). Peter calls him an example of loving 'wages of unrighteousness' (2 Pet 2:15), while Jude warns against 'error of Balaam' who went 'greedily after... reward' (Jude 11). His death demonstrates that apparent orthodoxy without genuine righteousness leads to destruction.

Historical Context

Balaam, from Pethor in Mesopotamia, had genuine prophetic gifts yet lacked regenerate heart. His oracles of blessing on Israel (Num 23-24) include Messianic prophecy (24:17), yet he sought profit from his gifts. His presence with Midian's kings reveals he stayed nearby after failing to curse Israel, waiting for opportunities to profit from Israel's enemies. His death fulfilled his own ironic request: 'Let me die the death of the righteous' (23:10) - he didn't, dying among God's enemies.
