

Numbers 33:14

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And they removed from Alush, and encamped at Rephidim, where was no water for the people to drink.

Analysis

Removed from Alush, and encamped at Rephidim—Rephidim (רֶפִידִים) possibly "rests" or "supports") became one of Israel's most significant pre-Sinai encampments. The defining detail: where was no water for the people to drink (אֵין מִים לְעָם לְשִׁתּוֹת, ein mayim la'am lishtot). This water crisis (Exodus 17:1-7) provoked Israel to quarrel with Moses, asking "Is the LORD among us, or not?" Moses struck the rock at Horeb, and water gushed forth—a Christological type (1 Corinthians 10:4, "that Rock was Christ").

Rephidim also witnessed Joshua's first military leadership, defeating Amalek while Moses held up his hands (Exodus 17:8-16). The juxtaposition of water-crisis and warfare introduces key themes: God provides for physical needs and protects from spiritual enemies, but both require persistent dependence (Moses's upheld hands) and active engagement (Joshua's fighting). The site name "Rephidim" ironically means "rests," yet Israel found no rest without water—true rest comes only through trusting the LORD's provision.

Historical Context

Rephidim was the final major encampment before Mount Sinai, located in the Wadi Refayid area. The water crisis occurred approximately 2.5 months after the Exodus (Exodus 19:1 indicates Sinai was reached in month three). The rock-striking incident typologically anticipates Christ as the smitten Rock (Isaiah 53; 1 Cor 10:4).

Study Questions

1. How does Israel's question "Is the LORD among us?" expose the heart issue behind most anxiety and complaining?
2. What does the rock-striking at Rephidim reveal about Christ's death as the source of living water (John 7:37-39)?
3. Why does God allow His people to reach desperate situations (no water) where only He can provide relief?
