

Numbers 9:2

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Let the children of Israel also keep the passover at his appointed season.

Analysis

The command to keep Passover 'in his appointed season' emphasizes timing prescribed by God, not human convenience. The Hebrew mo'ed (appointed time) indicates divinely fixed occasions. The specificity—'the fourteenth day of this month at even'—teaches that worship follows God's calendar, not ours. This principle opposes worship innovations where churches replace God-ordained means with human preferences. New Testament worship maintains divine appointment—Word and sacrament instituted by Christ, not left to individual taste or cultural adaptation.

Historical Context

The fourteenth day of Nisan (first month) began at sunset, following Jewish reckoning where days ran from evening to evening (Genesis 1:5). This precise timing commemorated the exact night of deliverance from Egypt. Later, Christ was crucified on Passover day, fulfilling the typology as our Passover lamb (1 Corinthians 5:7).

Study Questions

1. How does God's appointed timing for worship challenge contemporary 'relevance'-driven services?
2. What dangers arise when we prioritize convenience over God's prescribed means?
3. How does Christ's death on Passover demonstrate God's sovereignty over redemptive history?
