

Proverbs 10:27

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

The fear of the LORD prolongeth days: but the years of the wicked shall be shortened.

Analysis

Fearing the LORD extends one's days while wickedness cuts life short. This general principle reflects God's moral governance—reverence for God conduces to flourishing, while rebellion courts destruction. Though exceptions exist (martyrs dying young, wicked prospering temporarily), the pattern holds: godliness with contentment is great gain.

Historical Context

The Mosaic covenant explicitly connected obedience with long life in the land (Exodus 20:12, Deuteronomy 5:33). Solomon applies this corporate promise to individual piety, showing how covenant blessings work through godly living.
