

Proverbs 14:33

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Wisdom resteth in the heart of him that hath understanding:
but that which is in the midst of fools is made known.

Analysis

Wisdom resteth in the heart of him that hath understanding: but that which is in the midst of fools is made known. Belev navon tanuach chokhmah (בֵּלֵב נָבוֹן תָּנוּאֵךְ חֹכְמָה, in the heart of the discerning wisdom rests). Nuach (נוּאֵךְ, rest, settle, remain) shows wisdom dwells peacefully in understanding hearts. Uvekerev kesilim tivvada (וּבִקְרֵב כְּסִילִים תִּבְּוֵדָה, but in the midst of fools it is made known). The text suggests that whatever wisdom fools possess becomes known—likely meaning they broadcast it prematurely or proudly. The wise keep wisdom quietly until appropriate; fools advertise what little they have.

Historical Context

Ancient wisdom tradition valued discretion. Wise counselors didn't broadcast everything they knew. Fools, lacking depth, displayed shallow knowledge loudly. Proverbs 12:23 says: "A prudent man concealeth knowledge: but the heart of fools proclaimeth foolishness." Jesus exemplified this—speaking plainly to disciples but in parables to crowds (Matthew 13:10-17), knowing when to reveal and conceal truth.

Study Questions

1. Do you tend to rest quietly in wisdom or feel compelled to broadcast what you know?
2. What is the difference between humble confidence in truth and proud display of knowledge?
3. How can you cultivate a heart where wisdom 'rests' rather than a mouth that must constantly speak?
