

Proverbs 15:10

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Correction is grievous unto him that forsaketh the way: and he that hateth reproof shall die.

Analysis

Correction is grievous unto him that forsaketh the way: and he that hateth reproof shall die. Musar ra le'ozev orach (מוסר רע לעֹזֵב אֶרֶץ, discipline is evil to one forsaking the path). Those abandoning the right way find correction ra (רע, evil, grievous, offensive). Sone tokhachat yamut (שׂוֹנֵא תוֹכַחַת יָמוּת, hating reproof will die). Active hatred of correction leads to death. The proverb warns that resistance to discipline reveals and produces spiritual death. Hebrews 12:5-11 teaches that God disciplines those He loves; rejecting discipline indicates illegitimacy and leads to ruin.

Historical Context

Throughout Israel's history, prophets brought divine correction. Those who received it (like David after Nathan's rebuke, 2 Samuel 12) found life. Those who hated reproof (like Ahab opposing Micaiah, 1 Kings 22) perished. The exile resulted from generations rejecting prophetic correction (2 Chronicles 36:15-16). Post-exilic reforms came through receiving Ezra's and Nehemiah's reproof. The pattern continues—accepting correction produces life; hating it brings death.
