

Proverbs 15:4

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

A wholesome tongue is a tree of life: but perverseness therein is a breach in the spirit.

Analysis

A 'wholesome tongue is a tree of life,' but 'perverseness therein is a breach in the spirit.' The Hebrew 'marpe' (wholesome/healing) connects speech to restoration and life-giving power. The 'tree of life' imagery recalls Eden (Genesis 2:9) and points to Christ, the ultimate life-giver. Conversely, 'perverseness' (Hebrew 'seleph'—distortion/crookedness) breaks ('sheber'—shatters) the spirit. Our words either build up or destroy. Reformed theology emphasizes our responsibility for edifying speech (Ephesians 4:29) that ministers grace to hearers.

Historical Context

The tree of life imagery was powerful in ancient Israel, representing not just longevity but flourishing and blessing. Conversely, a broken spirit was seen as worse than physical injury (Proverbs 18:14).
