

Proverbs 16:5

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Every one that is proud in heart is an abomination to the LORD: though hand join in hand, he shall not be unpunished.

Analysis

---

This verse pronounces divine judgment on the proud: 'Every one that is proud in heart is an abomination to the LORD: though hand join in hand, he shall not be unpunished.' Pride of heart (gevah-lev) represents internal arrogance, not merely external display. God abhors it with the strong term 'abomination' (to'evah). The phrase 'though hand join in hand' likely means even if proud people form alliances or feel secure in numbers, they will not escape punishment. Some interpret it as a gesture of oath-taking or covenant-making—even formal agreements cannot protect the proud from God's judgment. This verse echoes 11:21 and establishes that pride will certainly face divine judgment.

Historical Context

Pride was the original sin—Satan's fall and humanity's fall both rooted in proud rebellion against God (Isaiah 14:12-15; Ezekiel 28:17; Genesis 3:5). Throughout Israel's history, pride preceded judgment: Pharaoh's pride led to plagues, Nebuchadnezzar's pride to humiliation, Herod's pride to death by worms. God consistently opposes the proud while showing grace to the humble (James 4:6; 1 Peter 5:5).
