

Proverbs 19:23

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

The fear of the LORD tendeth to life: and he that hath it shall abide satisfied; he shall not be visited with evil.

Analysis

The 'fear of the LORD' is reverent awe that submits to God's authority and delights in His ways. This fear 'tends to life'—Hebrew 'l'chayyim,' emphasizing that true life flows from proper relationship with God. The result is threefold: satisfaction, abiding security, and protection from evil. This doesn't promise immunity from trials but assurance of God's preserving care and ultimate deliverance. Satisfaction comes not from circumstances but from covenant relationship with the living God. The one who fears God rests secure regardless of external threats because God Himself is their portion and shield.

Historical Context

In a world of constant threats—warfare, famine, disease—the promise of divine protection held enormous significance. Israel's security depended not on military might but on covenant faithfulness to Yahweh.
