

Proverbs 20:1

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging: and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise.

Analysis

---

This proverb warns against alcohol abuse: 'Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging: and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise.' Wine (yayin) and strong drink (shekhar—beer or fermented drink) are personified as ' mocker' and 'raging.' They deceive, promising pleasure while delivering foolishness and loss of control. Those 'deceived' by alcohol lack wisdom. The verse doesn't absolutely prohibit alcohol (Scripture permits moderate use) but warns against its deceptive power. Proverbs repeatedly cautions about drunkenness (23:20-21, 29-35; 31:4-5). The warning recognizes alcohol's capacity to impair judgment and lead to destructive behavior.

Historical Context

Wine and beer were common in ancient Near Eastern cultures, consumed with meals and in celebrations. Yet drunkenness was recognized as dangerous, particularly for leaders who needed clear judgment (Proverbs 31:4-5). Biblical teaching permits moderate use while condemning drunkenness (Ephesians 5:18). The principle: don't be controlled by substances that impair wisdom and self-control.
