

Proverbs 20:23

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Divers weights are an abomination unto the LORD; and a false balance is not good.

Analysis

This verse repeats the condemnation of 'diverse weights' (dishonest scales) found throughout Proverbs. Commercial fraud—whether inflating measures for sales or deflating them for purchases—is 'not good' (a deliberate understatement meaning 'abominable'). Such dishonesty violates both justice and love of neighbor. The repeated emphasis on honest weights reflects how pervasive such fraud was and how seriously God views it. Every transaction is a moral act reflecting either covenant faithfulness or selfish exploitation. Honest business dealings demonstrate love for God and neighbor, while fraud reveals heart corruption. God will judge every act of commercial dishonesty because it oppresses the poor and despises His image in others.

Historical Context

Archaeological discoveries confirm widespread use of dishonest weights and measures in the ancient Near East. Israelite law explicitly commanded honest business practices (Leviticus 19:35-36; Deuteronomy 25:13-16).
