

Proverbs 22:9

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

He that hath a bountiful eye shall be blessed; for he giveth of his bread to the poor.

Analysis

The person with a 'bountiful eye' (generous spirit) sees abundance where others see scarcity, giving freely to the poor. Such generosity receives divine blessing. This connects economic behavior to spiritual condition: the generous person has been transformed by God's grace and reflects His character. Giving to the poor is lending to the Lord (Proverbs 19:17); God repays with both temporal and eternal rewards. Generosity demonstrates faith that God provides abundantly and will not leave the giver destitute. By contrast, the stingy person who hoards reveals distrust of God's provision. Believers should cultivate generous hearts that delight in meeting others' needs.

Historical Context

Israelite law mandated provision for the poor through gleaning, debt forgiveness, and prohibitions against exploitation. Generosity was covenant obligation, not optional charity.
