

Proverbs 23:30

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

They that tarry long at the wine; they that go to seek mixed wine.

Analysis

The answer to verse 29's questions: 'They that tarry long at the wine' and 'seek mixed wine' (strong drink) experience all that misery. 'Tarrying long' indicates not casual consumption but excessive indulgence. 'Seeking mixed wine' suggests pursuit of stronger intoxication. These people organize life around drinking, making it a priority and pursuit. The result is the catalogue of woes described in verse 29. This warns against not merely drunkenness but the lifestyle that leads to it—making alcohol a focus rather than occasional refreshment. Believers must not be mastered by anything except Christ (1 Corinthians 6:12). Whatever controls you besides God is an idol requiring repentance.

Historical Context

Ancient civilizations dealt with alcoholism and its social destruction. Despite changing drinking customs, the warning remains relevant: excessive, controlling consumption produces misery.

Study Questions

1. Do you 'tarry long' at any vice or indulgence, organizing life around it?
2. What has mastery over you that competes with Christ's lordship?
