

Proverbs 24:12

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

If thou sayest, Behold, we knew it not; doth not he that pondereth the heart consider it? and he that keepeth thy soul, doth not he know it? and shall not he render to every man according to his works?

Analysis

This verse confronts the excuse 'We knew it not' for failing to help the endangered (v. 11). You cannot plead ignorance before God, who 'considereth the heart' and 'knoweth it.' He who 'keepeth thy soul' sees everything; He who 'rendereth to every man according to his works' will judge your inaction. This emphasizes both divine omniscience (God knows what we truly knew) and accountability (we will answer for failure to help). Willful ignorance doesn't excuse; God judges both what we knew and what we should have known. Closing eyes to injustice doesn't eliminate responsibility. This should motivate vigilance regarding others' needs and readiness to intervene. God will require an account of our stewardship, including how we treated vulnerable neighbors.

Historical Context

Israel would be judged for oppressing the poor, widows, and orphans. Claims of ignorance didn't excuse covenant violations. God held His people accountable for justice.
