

Proverbs 25:18

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

A man that beareth false witness against his neighbour is a maul, and a sword, and a sharp arrow.

Analysis

---

A man bearing false witness against his neighbor is like a club, sword, or sharp arrow. The Hebrew 'ed sheqer' (false witness) and weapons imagery emphasize destructive power. False testimony devastates like physical weapons. Lies injure profoundly - destroying reputations, relationships, lives. The ninth commandment ('Thou shalt not bear false witness') protects against this violence. Speech can wound as deeply as weapons; truthfulness is moral imperative.

Historical Context

Mosaic Law severely punished false witness - false accuser received penalty his testimony would have brought on accused (Deuteronomy 19:16-21). Naboth's murder by false testimony (1 Kings 21) illustrates this sin's devastation. Jesus faced false witnesses at trial (Matthew 26:59-61). James 3:6 describes tongue as 'fire, a world of iniquity...it defileth the whole body, and setteth on fire the course of nature; and it is set on fire of hell.'
