

Proverbs 25:23

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

The north wind driveth away rain: so doth an angry countenance a backbiting tongue.

Analysis

The north wind brings forth rain; a backbiting tongue brings angry looks. The Hebrew 'chuwl' (brings forth/births) and 'ragan' (whisper/slander) describes gossip's inevitable consequences. Meteorological observation becomes moral lesson: gossip produces anger as surely as north wind produces rain. Cause-effect relationship is predictable. If you gossip, expect angry response when discovered. Slander breeds anger; truthful speech builds trust.

Historical Context

Proverbs repeatedly condemns gossip and slander (11:13, 16:28, 18:8, 20:19, 26:20-22). Ancient communities' closeness made gossip especially destructive. James 3:5-6 describes tongue's destructive power: 'Behold, how great a matter a little fire kindleth! And the tongue is a fire, a world of iniquity.' Modern social media exponentially amplifies gossip's reach and damage. Wisdom requires guarding speech carefully.
