

Proverbs 27:12

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

A prudent man foreseeth the evil, and hideth himself; but the simple pass on, and are punished.

Analysis

A prudent man foreseeth the evil—The Hebrew ‘ārûm (ארום, prudent) means shrewd or sensible, one who perceives danger before it arrives. Hideth himself (sâtar, סתר) means to take protective action, not cowardice but wisdom. Contrast the simple (pĕtā’îm, פְּתַאִים)—the naive, gullible ones who pass on obliviously and are punished (‘ānash, עֲנָשָׂה, suffer consequences).

This proverb appears nearly verbatim in 22:3, emphasizing its importance. The Christian application extends beyond physical danger to spiritual discernment—foreseeing temptation's consequences and fleeing (1 Corinthians 6:18, 10:14). Joseph exemplified this by fleeing Potiphar's wife (Genesis 39:12).

Historical Context

Ancient Israel faced dangers from wild animals, bandits, and military threats. Reading signs of approaching danger—storm clouds, armed groups, suspicious strangers—was essential for survival. This everyday wisdom principle applies to moral and spiritual threats in any era.

Study Questions

1. What recurring temptations or 'evil' do you need to foresee and actively avoid rather than test your resistance?
2. How can you develop spiritual prudence to recognize moral danger before you're caught in it?
3. Are there situations where you've been 'simple,' ignoring obvious warning signs, and what were the consequences?
