

Proverbs 29:18

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Where there is no vision, the people perish: but he that keepeth the law, happy is he.

Analysis

This famous proverb addresses the necessity of divine revelation: 'Where there is no vision, the people perish: but he that keepeth the law, happy is he.' The word 'vision' (chazon) refers to prophetic revelation, God's word communicated through prophets. Without it, people 'perish' (para—become unrestrained, cast off restraint, perish). Some translations render it: 'Where there is no revelation, people cast off restraint.' God's word provides moral boundaries and life-giving guidance; without it, chaos and death result. The parallel phrase emphasizes keeping the law (torah)—those who guard God's instruction are blessed ('happy,' ashrei). This verse celebrates Scripture's essential role in providing divine direction for life.

Historical Context

Periods when God's word was rare in Israel resulted in moral chaos (1 Samuel 3:1; Amos 8:11-12). The people needed prophetic revelation to know God's will and live righteously. Post-exilic Judaism centered on Torah as written revelation. Christianity recognizes Scripture as God's inspired, sufficient word (2 Timothy 3:16-17; 2 Peter 1:19-21). Without biblical revelation, societies descend into moral relativism and destruction.
