

Proverbs 6:16

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

These six things doth the LORD hate: yea, seven are an abomination unto him:

Analysis

This verse introduces the famous list of seven things the LORD hates (vv.16-19). 'These six things doth the LORD hate: yea, seven are an abomination unto him' uses numerical escalation (six...seven) for emphasis—a common Hebrew poetic device. The seven items that follow (proud look, lying tongue, hands that shed innocent blood, heart devising wicked plans, feet swift to evil, false witness, sower of discord) reveal God's moral character. What God hates reveals what He is—truthful, just, peaceable. The strong term 'abomination' denotes moral revulsion and covenant violation. This list focuses particularly on sins of speech and interpersonal harm, revealing God's concern for community integrity and truthfulness.

Historical Context

This passage belongs to the instructional section warning against various sins. The numerical saying formula ( $x, x+1$ ) appears throughout ancient Near Eastern wisdom texts as a mnemonic device. The specific sins listed reflect covenant community values—God abhors what destroys social trust and harms the innocent. Post-exilic Judaism developed extensive ethical teaching based on such lists.
