

Proverbs 6:24

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

To keep thee from the evil woman, from the flattery of the tongue of a strange woman.

Analysis

Wisdom keeps you from the evil woman, from the flattery of the foreign tongue. The Hebrew 'shamar' (keep/preserve) and 'chelqah' (flattery/smoothness) describe protective function and seductive danger. The 'strange woman' represents both literal sexual temptation and metaphorical enticement away from covenant faithfulness. Wisdom provides moral immunity against seduction's power. What seems irresistibly attractive loses appeal when wisdom reveals true cost.

Historical Context

Proverbs 5-7's extended adultery warnings addressed both literal sexual temptation and spiritual adultery (idolatry). Foreign women often introduced foreign gods (Solomon's downfall - 1 Kings 11:1-8). Flattering speech characterized both sexual seducers and false prophets. Wisdom exposes both. Ezra-Nehemiah's post-exilic concern about intermarriage reflected this ongoing danger.
