

Proverbs 9:8

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Reprove not a scorner, lest he hate thee: rebuke a wise man, and he will love thee.

Analysis

The scorner's proud rejection of reproof contrasts with the wise person's grateful reception. Correcting a scoffer invites hatred, but instructing the wise produces love. This shows wisdom's social dimension—teachability marks the truly wise, while unteachability proves folly regardless of intelligence.

Historical Context

Scorners or scoffers appear throughout Proverbs as the opposite of the wise. Their defining trait is not ignorance but proud rejection of correction, making them morally and spiritually incorrigible apart from God's transforming grace.
