

Psalm 1:2

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

But his delight is in the law of the LORD; and in his law doth he meditate day and night.

Analysis

The positive counterpart to verse 1, this verse reveals that true blessedness flows from delighting in God's torah (law/instruction). The Hebrew 'hagah' (meditate) originally meant to murmur or mutter, suggesting audible repetition and deep internalization of Scripture. Day and night meditation indicates constant engagement with God's Word, not legalistic obligation but genuine pleasure, echoing Joshua 1:8 and anticipating Christ's teaching about abiding in His word (John 15:7).

Historical Context

The emphasis on 'the law of the LORD' reflects Israel's covenant identity as a people defined by God's written revelation. This psalm would have been used in temple worship to instruct worshipers in the path of wisdom.

Study Questions

1. Do you genuinely delight in Scripture, or is it primarily a duty? What might shift your heart toward delight?
2. How could you incorporate more consistent meditation on God's Word into your daily rhythm?
