

Psalms 102:14

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

For thy servants take pleasure in her stones, and favour the dust thereof.

Analysis

The servants' favor (ratsah) toward Zion's stones and dust demonstrates deep love for God's dwelling place, even in its ruined state. This devotion to the physical symbols of God's presence reflects proper attachment to sacred things. The temple's destruction didn't diminish Israel's love for God's house. This prefigures Christian devotion to the church, though our temple is spiritual (1 Cor 3:16-17). Christ cleansed the physical temple (John 2:13-17) but ultimately became the true temple where God dwells among His people.

Historical Context

After Jerusalem's destruction by Babylon in 586 BC, the exiles mourned over the temple ruins. Even stones and dust became precious as reminders of God's former presence and promises of future restoration.
