

Psalms 102:24

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

I said, O my God, take me not away in the midst of my days:
thy years are throughout all generations.

Analysis

The plea 'take me not away in the midst of my days' expresses urgent desire for life extension, grounded in God's eternity. 'Thy years are throughout all generations' contrasts divine permanence with human transience. This appeal to God's eternal nature as basis for mercy demonstrates mature faith—God's unchanging character guarantees His faithfulness. The Reformed doctrine of God's immutability assures believers that He remains constant despite changing circumstances. Christ's resurrection demonstrates that God's eternal purposes triumph over death.

Historical Context

Ancient Israelites generally viewed long life as a divine blessing and reward for righteousness (Exod 20:12, Ps 91:16). Premature death suggested possible divine judgment, making the psalmist's plea for extended life a request for vindication.
