

Psalms 104:14

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

He causeth the grass to grow for the cattle, and herb for the service of man: that he may bring forth food out of the earth;

Analysis

God causes grass to grow for cattle and 'herb for the service of man' that he might bring forth food from the earth. This verse establishes God's provision for both animals and humans through vegetation. 'Service' (avodah) can mean work or worship, suggesting human agricultural labor cooperates with God's provision. Humans don't create food but cultivate what God causes to grow. This grounds work theology in God's providence—human labor is stewardship, not autonomous production. Christ fed multitudes (Matt 14:13-21), demonstrating divine provision.

Historical Context

Agriculture was central to ancient Israelite economy. Understanding crops growing as God's work, not merely human effort, prevented prideful self-sufficiency while encouraging diligent labor as cooperation with God.
