

Psalms 104:18

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

The high hills are a refuge for the wild goats; and the rocks for the conies.

Analysis

High hills are for wild goats (ye'elim), and rocks provide refuge for conies (shaphanim, likely rock badgers/hyraxes). God assigns habitats suiting each creature's needs—sure-footed goats get mountains, rock-dwelling creatures get cliffs. This demonstrates thoughtful design matching form to function. Every creature has its place in God's ordered creation. This ecological wisdom reflects God's intelligence in creation. Christ as Creator (John 1:3) designed these intricate relationships. The Reformed understanding of creation recognizes its coherent order as evidence of intelligent design.

Historical Context

Rock badgers/hyraxes inhabit rocky areas in the Middle East, while wild goats navigate steep mountain terrain. These were familiar animals demonstrating God's wisdom in suiting creatures to their environments.
