

Psalms 104:7

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

At thy rebuke they fled; at the voice of thy thunder they hasted away.

Analysis

---

At God's rebuke (ge'arah) and voice of thunder (qol ra'am), waters fled. This dramatic language personifies waters responding to divine command with fearful obedience. God's mere word reshapes creation. The 'rebuke' suggests authoritative correction of chaos. Christ demonstrated similar authority when He rebuked wind and waves (Mark 4:39). The Reformed emphasis on God's word as powerful and effectual recognizes that divine speech accomplishes God's purposes infallibly (Isa 55:11).

Historical Context

---

Thunder in ancient Israel was understood as God's voice (Ps 29), associated with theophanies and divine power. The fleeing waters recall God's judgment in the flood and deliverance at the Red Sea.
