

Psalms 105:12

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

When they were but a few men in number; yea, very few, and strangers in it.

Analysis

When Israel was 'but a few men in number,' 'very few and strangers' in Canaan, God's promises seemed impossible. Small numbers made the covenant promise of land and nationhood appear absurd. Yet God's promises don't depend on favorable circumstances. Abraham started with zero descendants; God promised innumerable offspring. 'Strangers' (ger) emphasizes their vulnerable, foreign status. This prefigures the church starting small but growing globally. Christ began with twelve disciples. The Reformed understanding of divine election recognizes God chooses the weak and few (1 Cor 1:27-29).

Historical Context

The patriarchal period featured Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, and Jacob's twelve sons—a tiny clan among Canaan's nations. Their vulnerability made God's promise of possessing the land humanly impossible.
