

Psalm 105:24

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And he increased his people greatly; and made them stronger than their enemies.

Analysis

God 'increased his people greatly' and made them 'stronger than their enemies.' Israel's multiplication in Egypt fulfilled God's promise to Abraham (Gen 15:5). Their numerical growth occurred in hostile territory, demonstrating God's blessing despite opposition. Becoming 'stronger' (atsam) than Egyptians eventually threatened Pharaoh, leading to oppression. Yet this growth was necessary for nationhood. Christ promised His church would grow and hell's gates wouldn't prevail against it (Matt 16:18). The Reformed understanding of God's sovereignty recognizes He builds His people despite opposition.

Historical Context

Exodus 1:7-12 describes Israel's explosive population growth in Egypt, from 70 to perhaps 2-3 million by the Exodus. This growth alarmed the Egyptians and led to their enslavement.
