

Psalms 105:42

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

For he remembered his holy promise, and Abraham his servant.

Analysis

This verse provides the theological foundation for all God's actions: covenant faithfulness. 'He remembered' (zakar, זָכַר) doesn't imply God forgot but means He acted according to His commitment. 'His holy promise' refers to the Abrahamic covenant (Genesis 12:1-3; 15:1-21; 17:1-8). 'Abraham his servant' emphasizes the covenant relationship—God binds Himself by oath to fulfill promises to His servants. This demonstrates that God's redemptive acts flow from covenant loyalty, not human merit. Every plague, provision, and protection served to fulfill God's promise to Abraham's descendants. This teaches the immutability of God's covenant and the certainty of His promises.

Historical Context

God's covenant with Abraham (circa 2000 BC) promised land, descendants, and blessing to all nations. Israel's 400-year Egyptian sojourn was prophesied to Abraham (Genesis 15:13), as was their deliverance. The exodus proved God's covenant memory spans centuries. For Israel reciting this psalm, it assured them that God's promises outlast generations—He is faithful even when circumstances seem to contradict His word.
