

Psalms 105:44

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

And gave them the lands of the heathen: and they inherited the labour of the people;

Analysis

This verse describes the conquest of Canaan under Joshua. 'Gave them the lands of the heathen' refers to God's gift of the Promised Land, fulfilling the Abrahamic covenant. 'They inherited the labour of the people' means Israel received established cities, vineyards, and olive groves they didn't build or plant (Deuteronomy 6:10-11). This demonstrates grace: unmerited inheritance of blessings. The verb 'gave' (nathan, נתן) emphasizes divine gift, not human conquest. Though Israel fought battles, victory came from God. This principle applies spiritually—believers inherit salvation and spiritual blessings not through personal labor but through Christ's finished work (Ephesians 2:8-9).

Historical Context

The conquest of Canaan (circa 1406-1400 BC) under Joshua fulfilled promises made centuries earlier to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. The land's inhabitants were judged for wickedness (Genesis 15:16; Deuteronomy 9:4-5), while Israel received grace. Archaeological evidence confirms the sudden appearance of a new culture in Canaan during this period, consistent with Israelite settlement. The inheritance of others' labor illustrates sovereign grace—receiving what one didn't earn.
