

Psalm 105:5

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Remember his marvellous works that he hath done; his wonders, and the judgments of his mouth;

Analysis

Remembering (zakar) God's marvelous works, wonders, and judgments demonstrates covenant faithfulness. Memory is active in Hebrew thought—not mere recall but rehearsing and applying. The three terms (marvelous works, wonders, judgments) comprehensively describe God's redemptive acts. Remembering prevents forgetting, which leads to apostasy (Deut 8:11-14). Christ instituted the Lord's Supper as memorial (Luke 22:19), commanding believers to remember His work. The Reformed emphasis on Scripture reading and preaching serves this memorial function.

Historical Context

Israel's festivals, particularly Passover, functioned as formal remembrances of God's deliverance. This verse calls for personal, continual remembrance beyond annual celebrations.
