

Psalm 106:32

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

They angered him also at the waters of strife, so that it went ill with Moses for their sakes:

Analysis

---

This verse recounts the incident at Meribah (Numbers 20:1-13). 'They angered him also at the waters of Meribah' refers to Israel's quarreling over water scarcity. 'So that it went ill with Moses for their sakes' explains that Moses suffered consequences because of the people's provocation. When the people quarreled, Moses struck the rock in anger rather than speaking to it as God commanded. This cost Moses entry into the Promised Land (Numbers 20:12; Deuteronomy 32:51-52). The verse teaches that leaders can be drawn into sin by those they lead, and that even faithful servants aren't exempt from consequences when they fail. It also shows the serious burden of leadership—others' sins can contribute to a leader's downfall.

Historical Context

This was the second water-from-rock incident. Forty years earlier, Moses struck the rock at Horeb as commanded (Exodus 17:6). At Meribah/Kadesh, God told Moses to speak to the rock, but Moses struck it twice in anger, saying 'Must we fetch you water out of this rock?' (Numbers 20:10). Moses's 'we' suggested human rather than divine agency, and striking (rather than speaking) violated God's command. The struck rock at Horeb represented Christ struck once for sin; the spoken-to rock at Kadesh should have shown Christ's ongoing provision without repeated striking. Moses's error obscured this typology.
