

Psalm 106:5

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

That I may see the good of thy chosen, that I may rejoice in the gladness of thy nation, that I may glory with thine inheritance.

Analysis

This verse expands the previous prayer's request. 'See the good of thy chosen' means to witness and experience the prosperity of God's elect people. 'Rejoice in the gladness of thy nation' shows desire to participate in corporate joy. 'Glory with thine inheritance' means to boast or exult together with God's special possession. The threefold parallelism ('chosen,' 'nation,' 'inheritance') emphasizes Israel's unique covenant status. The psalmist's joy is found not in personal success but in the flourishing of God's people. This reflects the biblical principle that individual flourishing is inseparable from the church's health.

Historical Context

The terms 'chosen,' 'nation,' and 'inheritance' all emphasize Israel's elect status as God's treasured people (Exodus 19:5-6; Deuteronomy 7:6). For exilic or post-exilic Jews, this prayer expressed longing to see covenant restoration and national spiritual renewal. It recognized that personal blessing is bound up with corporate covenant faithfulness.
