

Psalms 109:14

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Let the iniquity of his fathers be remembered with the LORD;
and let not the sin of his mother be blotted out.

Analysis

Let the iniquity of his fathers be remembered with the LORD (זכור עון אביהם) with and let not the sin of his mother be blotted out (ומנתת אמו אל-תמיה) — the verb זכר (zachar, "remember") with עון (avon, "iniquity, guilt") asks God to hold ancestral sins in active memory for judgment. And let not the sin of his mother be blotted out (ומנתת אמו אל-תמיה) — maternal sin (חטא, chatat) also retained in the divine ledger.

This echoes Exodus 20:5, "visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me." Critics call this unjust, but covenant theology views families as corporate entities: children who continue parental rebellion inherit parental judgment. Ezekiel 18 clarifies the righteous son doesn't die for the father's sin—but the son who perpetuates that sin bears cumulative guilt. David's enemy evidently continued a family legacy of covenant-breaking; thus ancestral guilt compounds rather than being blotted out by generational repentance.

Historical Context

David himself came from a mixed heritage (Ruth the Moabitess), yet God blotted out any ancestral disqualification through covenant mercy. His enemy receives no such grace because he spurned it—refusing to repent of the family pattern of treachery.

Study Questions

1. How do generational patterns of sin require both personal repentance and renouncing family iniquity?
2. What does Ezekiel 18 teach about individual responsibility versus corporate family guilt?
3. In what ways can we become "generational curse-breakers" through faith in Christ who bore our iniquity?
