

Psalm 118:14

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

The LORD is my strength and song, and is become my salvation.

Analysis

"The LORD is my strength and song, and is become my salvation." This verbatim quotation from Exodus 15:2 (Moses's song after Red Sea deliverance) applies Exodus typology to the psalmist's experience. Azi v'zimrat Yah (my strength and song is Yah) combines power and praise. Oz (strength) indicates might, power enabling action. Zimrat (song) denotes music, melody, praise—God becomes both the power for victory and the theme of celebratory song. "Is become my salvation"—vay'hi li lishu'ah (and He has become to me salvation). Yeshuah (salvation) means deliverance, rescue, victory—used later in Jesus's name (Yeshua). The verb hayah (become) indicates transformation—God didn't remain distant but became personally involved as Savior. This links exodus deliverance (past), present experience, and ultimate salvation.

Historical Context

Exodus 15's Song of the Sea celebrated Israel's greatest deliverance—escape from Egyptian slavery through Red Sea crossing. Moses led Israel in singing this hymn after Pharaoh's army drowned (Exodus 14-15). The song became paradigmatic for all subsequent deliverances. Israel regularly recited exodus story in worship (Deuteronomy 26:5-9, Psalms 78, 105, 106, 135, 136). The New Testament sees exodus as type of salvation in Christ—deliverance from sin's slavery, passing through baptism, heading to heavenly Canaan (1 Corinthians 10:1-4, Hebrews 3-4). Revelation depicts redeemed saints singing "the song of Moses...and the song of the Lamb" (Revelation 15:3).
