

Psalms 119:16

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

I will delight myself in thy statutes: I will not forget thy word.

Analysis

I will delight myself in thy statutes: I will not forget thy word. The Beth (ב) stanza concludes with promised delight and remembrance. Delight myself (eshta'asha, אֶשְׂתַּאֲשֶׁע) is an intensive reflexive form suggesting luxuriating or finding pleasure in God's statutes (chuqqotekha, חֻקֶּיךָ). This is not grim duty but joyful engagement—finding satisfaction and pleasure in what God has decreed. Such delight is supernatural; the unregenerate heart finds God's law burdensome (Romans 8:7).

The parallel promise I will not forget thy word (lo eshbach devarekha, לֹא אֶשְׁכַּח דְּבָרֶיךָ) connects delight with retention. What we love, we remember; what bores us, we forget. Word (davar, דָּבָר) is the comprehensive term for God's communication. This anticipates verse 11: 'Thy word have I hid in mine heart, that I might not sin against thee.' Jesus promised the Spirit would bring His words to remembrance (John 14:26), enabling believers to fulfill this commitment.

Historical Context

Israel's greatest failure was forgetting—forgetting God's works (Psalm 78:11), forgetting the covenant (Deuteronomy 4:9), forgetting God Himself (Jeremiah 2:32). The entire Deuteronomic history interprets Israel's downfall as the consequence of forgetting Yahweh. Against this backdrop, the psalmist's determination not to forget represents covenant loyalty and conscious resistance to the spiritual amnesia that plagued Israel.
