

Psalms 119:162

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

I rejoice at thy word, as one that findeth great spoil.

Analysis

I rejoice at thy word, as one that findeth great spoil (שֶׁשׁ אֲנֹכִי עַל-אִמְרֹתֶיךָ כְּמוֹצֵא) (שָׁלָל רַב, sas anokhi al-imratekha kemotzeh shalal rav)—Sus means 'exult, rejoice, be glad.' Shalal is battle plunder, war spoil, the victor's bounty. Rav intensifies: 'abundant, great, much.' The psalmist's joy over imrah (word, utterance, promise) matches a warrior's elation over rich battlefield plunder.

This echoes Jeremiah 15:16: 'Thy words were found, and I did eat them; and thy word was unto me the joy and rejoicing of mine heart.' Jesus embodies this in His wilderness temptation, valuing God's Word above bread (Matthew 4:4).

Historical Context

Ancient warfare made spoil a primary economic motivation (Judges 5:30; 1 Samuel 30:16). The comparison isn't about greed but about unexpected treasure after costly battle. The psalmist has fought to maintain Word-loyalty (v. 161); now he discovers the Word itself as his reward—more valuable than all material gain.

Study Questions

1. What would it look like practically to rejoice over Scripture as though you'd found 'great spoil' after battle?
2. How does comparing God's Word to battle plunder challenge consumeristic or merely sentimental views of Bible reading?
3. In what ways is the joy of discovering truth in Scripture similar to unexpected treasure after costly struggle?
