

Psalms 119:69

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

The proud have forged a lie against me: but I will keep thy precepts with my whole heart.

Analysis

---

The proud have forged a lie against me: but I will keep thy precepts with my whole heart. The verb forged (טָפַל, tafelu) means 'smeared' or 'plastered'—implying deliberate fabrication and persistent slander. The proud (זִדִּים, zedim) are arrogant rebels against God (see v. 51) who attack His servants through a lie (שֶׁקֶר, sheqer)—false accusation meant to destroy reputation.

But I will keep thy precepts with my whole heart—the adversative but marks defiant faithfulness despite slander. With my whole heart (בְּכָל־לֵב, bekhhol-lev) emphasizes undivided devotion, refusing to let false accusations produce bitterness or compromise. This foreshadows Christ, who suffered false testimony (Matthew 26:59-60) yet remained faithful. Peter exhorts believers similarly: let persecution come for righteousness, not actual wrongdoing (1 Peter 3:13-17).

Historical Context

Slander was a common weapon against the faithful—Joseph falsely accused by Potiphar's wife, Jeremiah charged with treason, Jesus accused of blasphemy, Paul charged with disturbing the peace. The ninth commandment prohibited false witness (Exodus 20:16), recognizing words' power to destroy. The early church faced widespread slander—accused of atheism (rejecting pagan gods), cannibalism (misunderstanding the Lord's Supper), and sedition (confessing Christ as Lord).

Study Questions

1. How do you respond when falsely accused—with bitterness, retaliation, compromise, or with wholehearted faithfulness to God?
2. What does it mean practically to 'keep precepts with whole heart' specifically when your reputation is attacked?
3. How can Christ's example of enduring false witness without retaliation strengthen believers facing slander today?
