

Psalms 121:6

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

The sun shall not smite thee by day, nor the moon by night.

Analysis

Yomam hashemesh lo yakkekah v'yareach balaylah (By day the sun shall not strike you, nor the moon by night). Nakah (strike/smite/harm) indicates harmful impact. Shemesh (sun) and yareach (moon) represent day and night dangers comprehensively. Ancient belief held that moon could cause harm (English "lunacy" from Latin luna, moon). Whether literal (sunstroke) or symbolic (any daytime/nighttime danger), God promises comprehensive protection around the clock. This builds on verse 5's shade imagery—protected from both day and night perils.

Historical Context

Sunstroke was real danger in Mediterranean climate, especially for travelers, workers, shepherds. 2 Kings 4:18-20 records a child dying after crying "My head, my head" (possibly sunstroke). Isaiah 49:10 promises the redeemed: "neither shall the heat nor sun smite them." Revelation 7:16 echoes: "They shall hunger no more, neither thirst any more; neither shall the sun light on them, nor any heat." Ancient cultures also feared moon's influence—hence "moon-struck" or "lunatic." Whether literal or symbolic, the point: comprehensive divine protection from all dangers, day and night.
