

Psalm 132:6

Authorized King James Version (KJV)

Lo, we heard of it at Ephratah: we found it in the fields of the wood.

Analysis

The perspective shifts to finding the ark: 'Lo, we heard of it at Ephrathah: we found it in the fields of the wood.' The exclamation 'lo' calls attention to the discovery. The phrase 'we heard of it' suggests the ark's location was discovered through report or inquiry. 'Ephrathah' refers to Bethlehem's region (Micah 5:2; Ruth 4:11), David's hometown. However, the ark wasn't at Ephrathah but at Kiriath-jearim ('fields of the wood,' Hebrew 'sedeh ya'ar'), where it remained after Philistines returned it (1 Samuel 7:1-2). The verse likely means: 'We (Israel/David) heard about it (the ark) at Ephrathah (David's home region), and found it in the fields of the wood (Kiriath-jearim).' This celebrates locating the lost/neglected ark, first step in restoring proper worship. The ark represented God's presence; recovering it was crucial to David's plan.

Historical Context

The ark remained at Kiriath-jearim approximately 70-100 years after Philistines returned it (1 Samuel 7:2). Saul largely ignored it, but David prioritized recovering and honoring God's presence. David brought the ark to Jerusalem with great celebration (2 Samuel 6), though initially Uzzah died for touching it improperly. The recovery marked restoration of central worship.
